Comments and Observations: I joined the class at the end of a very warm school day, as they were working on their topic about Liverpool and "What made Liverpool famous". It was a bit of a give away, as the children were all singing along to "Yellow Submarine, by a very famous group of Liverpudlians. I went around the tables and spoke to the pupils about their work, they were all clearly excited and interested in what they were doing and were indeed asking me questions about what I might know to help them with their work. As the pupils completed their work they joined Miss Cullen on the carpeted area of the classroom for their end of day activities, in which they played a guessing game that they were clearly familiar with, followed by a number of pupils sharing with the class their news and some activities that they would be involved in in the forthcoming summer vacation. At all times the pupils were most engaged, engaging, polite, well mannered and they left the class in an orderly manner, as their parents arrived to collect them. I am sure that staff are looking forward to the completion of work on the building site next to the school, warning beepers on reversing JCB's were a bit of a distraction. Nonetheless, a very refreshing and uplifting visit. Thank you Miss Cullen.
